Seen & Heard Around Murray

Guy Billington was telling the story about the fellow who ordered his breakfast with one egg scrambled and one over light. The waitress relayed his order and in due time arrived at his table with the breakfast. He immediately began raising Cain. What's the matter, what's the matter, she ordered one scrambled and one over light. That's right, says the man, but you scrambled the wrong one.

We are perfectly satisfied with a good steak, a well done baked potato and a cup of coffee.

Good luck to Phil Mitchell.

One advantage of these small cars was demonstrated yesterday afternoon. Lady turned a round right in the middle of the street.

Evidence of spring are apparent even in this cold weather. The Jonquills are up two or three inches. The Elm buds are swelling, the Maple buds are swelling and the Red Gum is beginning to look sort of bumpy.

Our sympathy to the family of Paul Gargus. Paul never complained so far as we know and always greeted us with a cheerful hello. When asked how he felt, he always replied that he was feeling better and felt that he was going to make it ok.

Paul was a go-getter and led his district or region practically all the time he was with Kentucky Central. Few people knew as many people in the city and county as Paul Gargus did.

Gary Graffman, pianist, will be presented Sunday, February 23 by the Murray Civic Music Association.

Today is George Washington's birthday. Washington was a great man and the manner in which he conducted himself dressed a great nation. How great must have been the temptation to continue as president or even as a king as some wanted him to. He was a man of character and set this nation on a strong course.

Changes Are Planned In State Highway Department

By LIVINGSTON TAYLOR FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) —

A spokesman for Gov. Louie B. Nunn said Friday "changes will be made" in the state Highway Department but declined to give further details.

Press Secretary Larry Van Hoose said Nunn and Highway Commissioner William B. Hazelrigg have met this week to discuss recent turmoil in the department.

"Changes will be made," Van Hoose said. "The extent of those changes, the people involved and the time at which they will be effected will be announced at a later date. . . . I don't expect anything over the weekend."

Asked if he expects a new commissioner to be named, Van Hoose said "I can't comment on that."

Hazelrigg and the governor's patronage chief, Loyd Murphy, have been at odds recently over hiring and firing of Highway Department personnel.

Van Hoose conducted Nunn's monthly news conference Friday because of the governor's illness. Nunn was confined to be at the Executive Mansion with an upset stomach.

Van Hoose read a caustic statement from Nunn, promising cooperation with Democratic state Atty. Gen. James B. Breckinridge's investigation into workmen's compensation insurance coverage in the underground coal mining industry.

"Kentucky statutes clearly establish that enforcement of this law is the responsibility of John Breckinridge, the attorney general," Nunn said. "I am glad he has come to recognize this responsibility after serving two terms. . . . the law has been on the books for 23 years without enforcement."

"I have asked the commissioner of labor and the commissioner of mines and minerals to cooperate with the attorney general in this effort," the governor said.

On other subjects, Van Hoose said the governor finds "encouragement" in the 1968 financial report of Spindletop Research at Lexington. The report shows contract income of $880,905, expenses of $114 million and contributions of $279,000. The state provided 48 percent of contract income. Spindletop has failed to break even for any full year since it was founded with heavy state support in 1961, but the report said.

Today is Saturday, Feb. 22, the 53rd day of 1968 with 312 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1819, Florida was ceded to the United States in a treaty with Spain.

In 1870, Frank Woolworth opened his first "five-cent" store in Utica, N.Y. During the first weeks sales averaged $2.50 a day.

In 1931, a group of 100 women in Miami, Fla., organized a Carrie Nation Brigade to fight bootleggers, speakeasies and gamblers.

In 1963, some 250 persons were killed in an earthquake in northeast Libya.

A thought for the day — Ernest Hemingway said: "The world is a fine place and worth fighting for."

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

Unclaimed social security money may be payable to many Paducah-area beneficiaries when their report of 1968 earnings has been filed.

The annual report of earnings is used to determine whether a beneficiary has been overpaid for the year. All beneficiaries agree to file this report if their earnings exceed the annual limit ($1680 for 1968).

Many present beneficiaries, however, signed up primarily to establish entitlement to Medicare and did not claim any monthly benefits as they expected to earn too high to permit payments. Further, because they were not receiving benefits, they were not receiving the annual report of earnings.

No matter how high his yearly earnings were for 1968, payment may be made for any month the beneficiary neither earned over $140 as an employee nor rendered "substantial" services in self employment (45 hours or less is usually not considered substantial).

Further payment could be due under the annual earnings rules that provide for no loss of benefits for the first $1680 or less earned in the year, but $1 of benefits is lost for each $2 earned from $1680 to $2880 and each $1 earned over $2880 causes the loss of $1 in benefits.

Many beneficiaries who work full time are surprised to find some payments can be made under the annual rules.

One grocery owner and his wife, for example, were paid $380 even though he worked full-time every month in 1968 and earned $3700. Here is how this happened: The benefit rate for him and his wife was $150 per month (or $1800 for the year). His earnings of $3700 caused a benefit loss of only $1420 ($600 for earnings up to $2880, plus $820 for the $320 he earned over $2880). He and his wife were due $380, the difference between the $1800 potentially due them for 1968, and the amount lost because of his earnings.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Is Nixon Neglecting Conservatives?

Richard M. Nixon is President of the United States today because the electorate wanted a meaningful change in the policies of the U.S. government. The voters were alarmed at the mistaken policies adopted by the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, and saw in Mr. Nixon an instrument of effective change. They believed that he would bring new people into government with strong, conservative convictions, who would have fresh ideas about dealing with the Soviet Union and the other enemies of freedom.

To accomplish change, however, requires a re-staffing of the key federal operating units. The President depends on the counsel of skilled advisers in the White House and at the Department of State. The old crowd, in power during the last eight years, has given proof that it is intellectually unable to produce programs and policies geared to the real needs of the nation.

It was a shock, therefore, to learn in early February that the National Security Council, the advisory group with a responsibility for integrating military, foreign and economic policies, has been re-staffed almost wholly with Kennedy and Johnson administration holdovers. Only one well known conservative, Dr. Richard V. Allen, has been named to the National Security Council staff.

The man responsible for staffing the NSC along these lines would please Hubert Humphrey and Teddy Kennedy is Dr. Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's chief security affairs adviser.

When Dr. Kissinger was given his post, it was assumed that he would draw on the talent that had been outside the government for the last eight years — the many realistic scholars who take a hard line on world affairs and who, therefore, were excluded from policy-making posts under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. This has not been the case, however. Instead Dr. Kissinger assembled a staff made up of people who had served the McNamara - Rusk - Rostow regime.

To name only a few: Dr. Morton Halperin, a former Harvard professor, was chief of policy planning and arms control at the Pentagon under Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Victor P. Vaky, specialist in Latin affairs, was coordinator of the Alliance for Progress under the Johnson administration.

Daniel I. Davidson was a member of Ambassador Averell Harriman's staff at the Paris Peace talks. Lawrence S. Eagleburger was a special assistant to former Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, a Kennedy clan favorite.

Given the fact that Mr. Nixon is a Republican and was elected by the conservative vote, Dr. Kissinger's choices are nothing less than fantastic. He has chosen aides as though it were Hubert Humphrey who was elected.

President Nixon is engulfed in the myriad tasks of the Presidency. It may well be — one hopes it is the case — that he doesn't realize Dr. Kissinger has assembled a National Security Council staff that can only alienate him from the conservative constituency that elected him and give him the same tired advice that led to the mistakes of the last two administrations.

There is alarming evidence that the conservative realistic viewpoint is being neglected by the new administration in several areas. One of the most important of these is the State Department. Candidate Nixon promised to give the Department a real housecleaning. But Human Events, a reliable Washington newsletter, reports that "there is no evidence available to suggest that such a housecleaning is in the works." Indeed Human Events reports that the top assistant to the Undersecretary of State "is considered a congenial Liberal in the field of foreign policy."

In the absence of the appointment of realists to the State Department, and with the continuation in power of holdovers from the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, concern is deepening among conservatives who supported Mr. Nixon.

Some conservatives fear that they "dropped the ball" after the election, that they didn't make a sufficiently strong pitch to the then President-elect, and didn't insist on appointment of known realists to top positions in the State Department and on the White House staff. The people associated with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York apparently moved very fast to get positions of influence in the new administration, while conservatives sat back and congratulated themselves on having elected a new team.

It is not too late, for the conservatives to make an impact on the new administration, President Nixon, as an experienced political leader, knows that he was elected by the conservatives in the West, Middle West and South, not by the Liberal Republicans in the Northeast. Administrations go through many phases and strong pressure from the conservatives at this time might be what's needed to secure appointment of realists to key policy-making jobs and to revise staffs already appointed. Dr. Kissinger and his aides, for example, could be quietly downgraded and a new team of realists given the real authority for furnishing the President with vital information.

"Old Winter, sad, in snowy clad is making a doleful din; But let him howl, till he crack his jaw, We will not let him in."

Thomas Nod I had planned to gather some branches of forsythia, flowering cherry and pussy willow this week to force in water. But the snow curtailed that activity with the exception of a few branches of the "Fan Tail Willow." These root so rapidly and easily that in a week or ten days the cuttings are ready to put into a peat pot for the rest of the winter until planting time outdoors. This particular willow gains its attractiveness from an insect that invades the plant, causing the ends of the branches to curl and twist. Those who like the Japanese arrangements find it invaluable in creating the delicate curves in this style of flower arrangement.

Branches of any shrub cut for forcing should be taken from the outer edges of the plant, as it seems the flower buds are formed where they get the most light and air. The later blooming shrubs are not good for forcing as their buds are not sufficiently developed this early in the spring.

For best results, if possible, immerse the branches in tepid water for several hours before attempting arrangement. Most failures to get buds to open are caused by bringing branches into the heat of our homes, without having had the chance to absorb enough water.

After soaking, place in jars of lukewarm water in a window in cool room for a few days. Then bring into the warm room just as the buds are beginning to burst, for a wonderful display.

The branches will absorb a lot of water so see that they have plenty and change it every day or so. A piece of charcoal in the container will keep the water sweet.

Transparent bowls do not make effective bouquets. Pottery or any dark, heavy container is best. The Japanese who are experts in making arrangements of forced branches, use brass or copper jars. They call their design the principle of "balance of inequalities," meaning an equal amount on each side but not symmetrical. The open design adds to its attractiveness.

The early maple branches, make lovely arrangements as the little red knobs are forced. Others of the flowering shrubs are Dogwood, Spirea, Flowering Almond, Deutzia and Azalea, to mention a few. Try some others, experiment a little, remembering to soak them thoroughly, then put in tepid water.

These will give an added beauty to our homes until the outdoor plants begin to blossom.

Cares For Its Own

NEW YORK UPI — There's still one place left where baseball players and owners pitch in together and help each other out. You're wrong if you guessed the Garden of Eden inasmuch as the place in question is located right in downtown Los Angeles. Chances are you haven't ever run across it because it operates quietly, never advertises and always avoids rather than seeks publicity of any kind.

The Association of Professional Baseball Players of America doesn't care to be publicized and maybe that's because its prime function is to help people and the best way to do that is quietly.

The association was formed by 12 ballplayers in 1924, is non-profit and has done more good in one day than some other far more well-known organizations have done in a year. If you get one of its members, Casey Stengel, worked up enough, he jabs a finger in your chest and tells you "It's one of the few 100 per cent honest organizations left in America today."

One of the reasons for that is Chuck Stevens, a former big league first baseman, who gives 100 per cent of his energy to running the organization and running it right. Stevens put in 21 years in pro ball, three of them with the St. Louis Browns, and has been secretary-treasurer of the association the last seven years.

"The object of our association is to take care of the ill and the indigent," says Stevens. "Contrary to popular opinion, baseball does not forget its own."

It certainly doesn't. For that the players and owners can both take bows.

Many owners and front office executives are members of the association despite its official name. Some like Minnesota's Calvin Griffith, because he once was under a minor league contract. Some like Montreal's John McHale, because he once was under a major league contract, and some, like San Francisco's Horace Stoneham, because he happens to have a heart as big as a bathtub and has helped hundreds of ballplayers that nobody knows of and nobody ever is going to know of if he can help it.

To belong to the association, major league players pay $10 a year; Triple-A and Double-A players $7 and Class A and rookie players only $5.

All major league clubs and most minor league ones match the amount the players put in. That means the owners contribute the same amount as the players to a fund essentially for the benefit of the players. This fund is entirely separate from the regular players' benefit fund. That's the one causing all the hassle now.

There's more to it than that

Racers To Defend OVC Title At East Tennessee Tonight

By JOE TOM ERWIN

Murray State rampaging Racers took another big step toward the Ohio Valley Conference championship by beating Morehead Monday, but two other tremendously important games stand in the way of their second straight conference title.

They must play at East Tennessee Saturday and then play Western, who is in second place in the way of their second straight conference title.

The two-point, overtime win over Morehead gave the Racers a 10-2 OVC record, avenged the worst defeat of the season—a 11-17 trouncing at Morehead—and pushed the Eagles to third place in the league. It also gave the Racers a 20-4 overall record, the best at Murray since the 1943 team won 22 and lost 4.

Murray beat East Tennessee 69-64 in a game at Murray earlier in the season, but a Racer win at Johnson City will take a monumental effort, according to Coach Cal Luther. "East Tennessee is a good solid ball team," Luther said, "and they've played some great games of late."

Although East was beaten at Johnson City last Saturday at Bowling Green, before losing by four points, in that game the Buccaneers' super guard Harley Swift was averaging 41 points. Swift is averaging 174 points, 21 points a game better than 21 points a game.

for the season. Forward Mike Kretzer is also having a great year for the Bucks, averaging 18.8 points.

East has a 13-9 overall record and is in fifth place in the OVC with a 4-6 record.

Claude Viriden, who had his best shooting night of the season with 32 points against Morehead, raised his season scoring average to 23.0. He hit 13 of 16 from the field and 6 of 8 at the line against Morehead, and he spent about 10 minutes of the game on the bench with five fouls.

Hector Blondett is averaging 14.5 points; Jimmy Young, who broke out of a shooting slump against Morehead, 11-2, Ron Johnson 10.8; Frank Street 8.7, and Don Funneman 6.4. Jim Stocks, who has been great in reserve for Murray in recent games, is averaging 5.5.

The Racers hit better than 60 percent of their shots against Morehead and raised their season shooting percentage to 47.6, the best in the OVC and well above the Murray and OVC season records.

Murray also leads the OVC in free throw shooting with a percentage of 70.5. The Racers have averaged 80.6 points and 45.5 rebounds to their opponents' 74.9 and 42.1.

Yarborough Favored At Daytona 500

By CHARLES S. ALDINGER

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—No matter how you slice it, Chubby-Cale Yarborough has got to be favored to win Sunday's $208,000 Daytona 500.

The Timmonsville, S. C., tobacco farmer-Ford jockey will be starting fifth in the lineup behind pole man Buddy Baker who is in a Dodge Charger. If Yarborough wins, it will be four big ones in a row over Daytona's high-banked track.

Yarborough won last year's 500 and the last two "Firecracker 400" July 4 races here. He finished second behind David Pearson, Spartanburg, S. C., in another Ford in one of a pair of 125-mile Thursday races.

The two qualifying races were won by Pearson and Bobby Isaac, Catawba, N. C., in a Dodge Charger. And they didn't develop into the wild Ford-Dodge duel which Sunday's run is expected to provide.

Fords finished one-two-three-four-five in the first race, and the Dodges one-two-three in the second.

Dodges driven by Baker and Isaac will start at the front row Sunday with Pearson's Ford and Charlie Glotzbach in another Dodge on the second row.

In the third row will be Yarborough and Paul Goldsmith, Munster, Ind., in a Dodge, followed by Donnie Allison, Huey, Ala., and Indy 500 champ Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N. M., in Fords.

One of the preliminaries to the big race, the first annual Florida "Citrus 250" for grand touring cars, was scheduled for today at 1 p. m. EST.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—Gene Littler, winner of last week's Phoenix Open, leads golf money winners for 1969 with earnings of $48,028. Jack Nicklaus is second with $36,950.

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Roy Sievers, who hit 293 homers during a 15-year major league career, will manage the Burlington Iowa farm club of the Oakland A's in the Class A Midwest League this year.

Racers In Miami, Ohio Track Meet

By JOE TOM ERWIN

The Murray State track team will run a four-team indoor meet at Miami University of Ohio, today.

Other teams in the meet will be Miami, Tennessee Tech, and Memphis State.

Murray has won one triangular meet this season, beating Ball State and Taylor, and placed third in a triangular meet between the College Relay, Purdue and Indiana University. The Racers won 12 of 16 first places in the Ball State meet and 6 of 16 at Purdue.

Several team members participated in the Mason-Dixon Games in Louisville last Saturday. The mile relay team of Larry Coleman, Al Hicks, Leroy McGinnis, and Tommy Turner won the Collegiate Relay. Darrell Remole placed third in the Kentuckians-Mile. Turner was knocked to the track in the 600 yard run and failed to finish. Sprinter Eddie Hearn failed to qualify for the finals in the 70-yard dash.

Coach Bill Cornell will enter 47 men in the meet at Miami. His entries will be Tim Sparks, not put; Bob Hargrove, high jump; David Hazelwood and Don Stout, long jump and triple jump; Doug Morris, pole vault; Remole, mile and two mile; Gregg Fullerton, mile, and half mile; Turner, 440, 600, and mile relay; McGinnis, 440, 50-yard dash, and mile relay; Ed Smith, 50-yard high and low hurdles; Hicks, 1000-yard run and mile relay; Hearn and Randy Smith, 50-yard dash; and Gary Leighton, Bill Clark, and Bob Weis, two mile.

Several Murray indoor records have been set by the Racers this season: McGinnis set a record in the 300-yard dash (3:0.8); Remole in the mile (4:16.2); Smith in the 70-yard low (8.2); and Leighton in the two mile (9:23.5). Turner, who ran the 600 in 1:09.3 last year for a Murray record, set a Purdue fieldhouse record of 1:11.4 in the event.

Dear Abby

Anesthetic Won't Give Her Away

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am being childish, but I am worried about something I can't confide in anyone else. I am scheduled to have some extensive dental surgery in the near future and my dentist has informed me that I will have to be "put under" with a regular anesthetic.

That doesn't bother me, but I understand people tell a lot of tales out of school while they are "under" and I don't want to take any chances because our dentist belongs to our club and it could be embarrassing, if you know what I mean.

I would appreciate any help you can give me.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Don't worry, it will be practically impossible for you to put your foot in your mouth while your dentist has his hand in it. Besides, only a psychiatrist gets paid for listening.

DEAR ABBY: I am a housewife with all kinds of problems. One of the biggest is my husband, Sam. He brings the boys in for poker two nights a week. If that was all, I wouldn't complain. The boys never have the poker game at their house. Never. They come here like wolves with empty stomachs, and pretty soon Sam comes and asks ME to fix the boys a snack, so I fix up a big plate of sandwiches. Next it's beer. Abby, twice a week gets pretty expensive with the allowance I get.

I have mentioned this to Sam, but he refuses to say a word to the boys about it. So what should I do?

SAM'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Inform Sam that unless HE sweetens the pot, or asks his poker pals to ante up—no refreshments! And tell him you're a pretty good poker player, too, so he'd better not call your bluff.

DEAR ABBY: This problem has caused my brother, sisters and myself extreme embarrassment and shame. Our parents have been divorced for several years. Dad remarried, but his wife left him shortly afterwards, so now he goes to visit Mom quite often.

We children are all married and could provide a room for Dad when he comes to town, but he prefers staying with Mom at her one-bedroom apartment. I'm sure he's not sleeping on the couch. How can we convince them that if they're going to live together again they should get married? People are beginning to talk.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Your parents' behavior reflects only on themselves—let them know you disapprove of their unconventional behavior and forget it. They'll do what they want to do anyway.

DEAR ABBY: Following the birth of my fifth child, my doctor felt that more children might result in serious damage to my health, so with my consent he "tied my tubes."

After that, my husband promptly turned a cold back on me. Being an old farm boy he said, "Once an animal has been fixed, it's no good." A few years later he walked out on me.

The children and I have made an almost full life for ourselves, but I never have been able to grow fond of another man. Then in your column I read a letter that eased the deep, old pain.

Please thank that wonderful M. D. who wrote to say that his wife's birth-scarred body is the most beautiful in the world.

Miss Katherine Ann Scott Is Married To Barton Thomas Thompson In Lovely Ceremony At The First Baptist Church

MRS. BARTON THOMAS THOMPSON

Miss Katherine Ann Scott and Barton Thomas Thompson were married in a beautiful candlelight ceremony in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church on Friday, January 31.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neil Scott, 903 North Sixteenth Street, Murray, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Thompson of Paris, Tenn.

Dr. H. C. Chiles, minister of the church, performed the impressive double ring ceremony at seven o'clock in the evening. The sanctuary of the church was beautifully decorated for the evening wedding with floor containers and bridal baskets filled with stock and chrysanthemums. Two seven branched Swedish iron candelabras flanked each side of the altar.

John Bowker, organist, presented a lovely program of nuptial music for the wedding.

The bride was radiant as she entered the church escorted by her father who gave her in marriage. Her original gown of white embroidered organza was designed with a sabbina neckline and empire waist, accented with a white velvet sash.

Her fingertip veil of white illusion was centered on a cluster of white petals accented with crystals. She carried a French bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley with white streamers.

Miss Christy Scott was the maid of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids were Miss Karen Scott and Miss Joni Scott, both sisters of the bride.

The attendants were beautifully dressed in dresses fashioned of ice pink crepe with long full sleeves and skirts. The empire waists were accented with pink velvet. Their headpieces were of pink carnations and sweetheart roses highlighted by long pink streamers.

Each of the three sisters carried an old-fashioned nosegay made of pink rosebuds and pink carnations with streamers to match their headpiece.

Franklin Thompson, brother of the groom, served as best man and Bill Looney was the groomsmen.

The ushers were Mike King, Charles Perry, and Fugate Redmon.

The bride's mother chose to wear for the wedding a pink satin crepe with rhinestone button trim and matching accessories. Her corsage was of white camellias.

Mrs. Thompson, mother of the groom, wore an ivory coat and dress ensemble with emerald green accessories and corsage of pink camellias.

The paternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. E. M. Scott, of Paris, Tenn., was seated in a navy blue jacket dress with matching accessories, and the maternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Dan A. Draffen of Benton, wore a mint green knit suit. They both had corsages of white carnations.

Following the ceremony the reception was held at the Murray Woman's Club House.

The beautifully appointed bride's table was covered with a Belgian cut linen cloth trimmed in matching Belgian lace. The four tired cake was adorned with the traditional bride and groom statue. Two five branched candelabras, featuring white tapers, trimmed with boxwood and lily of the valley, adorned both the bride's table and the punch table. Both tables held ivory streamers and white satin bows with lily of the valley at each corner.

Miss Debbie Calloway served the cake and Miss Marilyn Alexander presided at the punch bowl. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Bob Billington, Mrs. Dale Dix, Mrs. Robert L. Draffen, Mrs. Rexford Gill, Mrs. Theresa Romaine, Mrs. Joe Draffen, and Mrs. David McMillan.

Mrs. John Gibson, sister of the groom, attended the guest register at the table covered in a cut linen cloth and featuring white tapers in two pronged candelabras decorated with white satin bows and lily of the valley.

Serving as rice girls were Miss Dede Draffen, niece of the bride, Miss Jennie Wiser and Miss Francis Wiser, niece of the groom.

After the reception the couple left on an unannounced wedding trip and are now at home in Murray.

The bride is a graduate of Murray University School and is now a sophomore at Murray State University majoring in art. Her sorority is Kappa Delta.

Mr. Thompson, a graduate of Grove High School, Paris, Tenn., received his Bachelor of Science degree in business administration from Murray State University. He is presently associated with the Midland-Ross Power Controls Division of Paris, Tenn.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Calorie counters often pay 25 cents for a cup of water, says Sandy Heybrook, University of Nebraska Extension food and nutrition specialist.

If you're a weight watcher, you may have been caught in the trap of so-called diet foods. The imitation or diet margarine the grocery shelf are more than 50 per cent water, and they cost about twice as much per pound, the food specialist said.

65 Acres In Trees Planted In Calloway
Landowners of Calloway County planted 65 acres of trees last year. Foresters and agriculturists estimate that another 24,080 acres of idle land are best suited to trees. What does this mean for the county?

The foresters say that 1,000 acres of planted pine provide the base for 10 new jobs in industry. The U. S. Department of Commerce says that 100 new industry jobs mean:

296 more people,
74 additional persons in services, trades, and professions,
112 more households,
$590,000 in personal income per year,
$277,000 more bank deposits,
$1 additional school children,
4 more retail outlets established, and $360,000 retail sales each year.

Can we in Calloway County afford our idle acres a spokesman said? Contact the county agent, ASOS office manager, or local forester to see what can be done.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

Clergymen and Justices of the Peace may be affected by deadlines as a result of the 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Act.

One Amendment provides that all clergymen are automatically covered by Social Security effective with taxable years beginning after 1967, unless an exemption is granted by Internal Revenue Service. To obtain an exemption, a clergyman must file a request with IRS before April 15, 1970. Those who are currently entering the ministry have until the due date of the tax return for the second year in which they have net earnings of $400 or more in which to file this request. This request must be accompanied by a statement signed by the clergyman that he is opposed to the acceptance (with respect to services performed by him as a minister) of any public insurance benefits for reasons of conscience or religious principles. An exemption may not be granted to a clergyman who previously filed an effective waiver certificate electing social security coverage for any taxable year which ended before 1968. The previous law provided that clergyman could be covered only after they had filed this waiver certificate. Services performed by members of a religious order who have taken a vow of poverty remain excluded from social security coverage.

Another Amendment provided that services performed by employees of State and local governments in positions compensated solely on a fee basis are covered by social security under the self employment provisions, unless such services are otherwise covered by a Federal-State agreement. The one exception to this rule is that any individual occupying such a fee basis position in 1968 may elect not to be covered by social security by filing a certificate of exemption with Internal Revenue Service before April 15, 1969. Positions affected by this Amendment are mainly those occupied by Justice of the Peace.

Hey There, Boss Take a Memo

BY PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The boss who mumbles when dictating has something in common with the boss who only dictates after lunch — and always eats garlic-seasoned dishes. Both types have troubles keeping good secretaries.

The international secretary of the year — Mrs. Bobbie Ogden of Dallas — says such bosses complain about the secretary shortage.

Such men, she said in an interview, "frequently are young and don't know how to treat a secretary as a person."

OTHER marks of bosses least likely to rate passing grades:

- The time waster who fiddles away the day, dictates a flock of letters 30 minutes before closing and demands that they get in the mail that same day.

- The one who constantly checks up on secretary, not giving her credit for intelligence. This type often spends an hour on the phone making airline reservations. She could do it faster and better.

- The boss who doesn't know where he's going or when he'll be back.

- The boss who only makes throat-clearing noises in response to a secretary's cheery "good morning" or "how are you?"

MRS. OGDEN, secretary to Fred Brown, hotel consultant and president of Innkeepers Management Services Inc. and Florence Miller Cosmetics Inc., won her title at the annual convention of the National Secretaries Assn. She also told of some characteristics of beginning secretaries least likely to succeed. Samples:

- Tell everybody in office of personal affairs.
